Dear Ministry Partners

As we share this edition of our newsletter, my heart is filled with gratitude for what the Lord is doing through Every Home for Christ and the faithful people who serve alongside us. From conversations in family homes to new connections with ministry partners, we continue to see opportunities to share the Gospel and demonstrate the love of Jesus in practical ways.

Our outreach in the Soshanguve South informal settlement was a reminder of why this work matters. As ministries came together, families welcomed the message of hope, and many opened their hearts to the Lord. Through our Margins Ministry, we also had the privilege of offering food, clothing and essential items. These encounters reminded us that taking time to listen and respond with compassion is an important part of reaching people with Christ's love.

We were also encouraged by our participation in the Missions Expo. New relationships, partnerships and ministry opportunities emerged, and we thank God for the doors that opened. To our team who served so faithfully throughout the two days, thank you. Your dedication and willingness to give of yourselves are deeply appreciated.

As we look ahead, we are especially excited about the One Africa Conference in October. Last year's successful gathering left us with precious memories, strengthened relationships and renewed encouragement. We eagerly anticipate welcoming everyone back and building on the fellowship and unity we experienced together. It will be a joy to return to the Birchwood Hotel and work alongside their team once again. Above all, we look forward to seeing our ministry family from across Africa, hearing your testimonies, praying together, and sharing in the vision that unites us. My prayer is that each person will leave refreshed, encouraged and strengthened for the work God has entrusted to them.

Thank you for your continued prayers, partnership and faithful service. As you read the stories in this issue, may you be encouraged by what God is doing and reminded of the part you play in taking the Gospel to every home.

In Christ,
Ps Hebert Mahuni

BRINGING HOPE TO SOSHANGUVE SOUTH

It was a privilege to see different ministries come together with one shared purpose: to reach the lost and share the love of Jesus Christ. This spirit of unity was evident during an outreach to the Soshanguve South informal settlement, where teams brought the Gospel and practical support to families in the community.

The outreach formed part of a broader vision to reach every home in the settlement. Rather than a once-off visit, it reflected an ongoing commitment to walk alongside the community and ensure that each household had the opportunity to hear the Gospel. The day began with house-to-house evangelism, giving teams the opportunity to meet families, listen to their stories, and share the hope found in Jesus Christ. These personal encounters created space for meaningful conversations about the challenges people faced and the love of God in the midst of their circumstances.

Some of the stories shared were deeply touching. As the teams listened, they were reminded of the need for hope, healing, restoration and freedom. They sensed that God had brought them into the community at a meaningful time, with an opportunity to offer encouragement and point people towards Him.

The response to the Gospel was positive. Many welcomed the message of Jesus Christ and opened their hearts to Him. By God's grace, the teams had the privilege of leading many people to the Lord, bringing joy and renewed encouragement to those who served. Alongside the evangelism, the Margins Ministry provided practical care. Soup and bread were served, sanitary pads were distributed to women, children were blessed with gift boxes, and pre-loved clothing was provided to families. Through these simple acts of kindness, community members experienced an expression of the compassion and love of Christ.

The outreach reflected the importance of both sharing the Gospel and responding to people's needs. Taking time to listen, entering homes, sharing a meal and offering essential items helped remind those who were often overlooked that they were seen, loved and valued by God.

This visit marked another step in the ministries' continuing commitment to Soshanguve South. The teams reaffirmed their vision to reach the community, street by street and home by home, trusting God for lasting transformation through the power of the Gospel.

New Connections AT THE MISSIONS EXPO

Every Home for Christ took part in the Missions Expo for the first time this year, spending two meaningful days showcasing the ministry and connecting with others who shared a passion for the Great Commission.

The Expo provided an opportunity to introduce visitors to the ministry's vision and work, while creating space for conversations about reaching people with the Gospel. New connections were made, partnerships were formed, and exciting opportunities for ministry opened up. The team was grateful for what the Lord had done and encouraged by the possibilities that emerged from these encounters.

The two days also reflected the dedication of the team, who worked tirelessly throughout the event. Their commitment, sacrifice and enthusiasm helped make the ministry's participation a success. Each team member played a valued part in sharing the vision and welcoming those who engaged with the ministry.

Every Home for Christ extended heartfelt thanks to everyone who served. The team left the Expo with renewed encouragement, trusting that the relationships and opportunities established would bear fruit and create further avenues for sharing the Gospel.

LOOKING FORWARD TO THE ONE AFRICA CONFERENCE

As we prepare for the One Africa Conference in October, our hearts are filled with gratitude and anticipation. We are excited to welcome our teams, leaders and ministry partners back for a time of fellowship, encouragement and renewed vision. Bringing together people who share a passion for reaching every home with the Gospel is a special occasion, and we look forward to all that this year's gathering will hold.

Reflecting on the success of last year's conference gives us much to celebrate. It was a meaningful opportunity to reconnect, share experiences, and strengthen the relationships that sustain our work across the continent. The joy of being together, hearing what God was doing through different ministries, and encouraging one another left us with treasured memories and renewed enthusiasm for the task before us.

Last year also reminded us how valuable these gatherings are. While we remain connected throughout the year, there is something special about sitting together, sharing a meal, and having time for conversations that go beyond our daily responsibilities. Hearing another person's testimony or learning how a team has approached a challenge can bring fresh perspective and encouragement to our own ministry. We are delighted to return to the Birchwood Hotel and to partner once again with their team. Returning to a familiar venue adds to the sense of warmth and anticipation surrounding the conference. It is a place we associate with fellowship and shared memories, and we look forward to seeing it filled once more with friends and colleagues from across Africa. At the heart of One Africa are the people who faithfully carry the Gospel into their communities. Each team brings its own stories, insights and experiences, reflecting the many places and circumstances in which we serve. The conference offers an opportunity to honour that work, listen to one another, and celebrate the dedication of those who continue reaching homes and families with the love of Christ.

We are especially excited to reconnect with familiar friends and welcome those who will be joining us for the first time. We hope that every delegate will find a sense of belonging, encouragement and shared purpose. Whether through a conversation over a meal, a testimony shared, or a moment of prayer together, we trust that our time at One Africa will strengthen both friendships and ministry partnerships.

To everyone preparing to join us in October, we eagerly await your arrival. Building on the joy and success of last year, we look forward to another memorable gathering at the Birchwood Hotel. May this year's One Africa Conference be a time of refreshing fellowship, deepened relationships, and renewed commitment to the Great Commission.
